Be it resolved by the people of the state of Missouri that the Constitution be amended:

Article I is amended by adding and adopting two new sections to be known as Section 36 and Section 36(a).

Section 36. The jury or judge as the trier of the facts in civil actions or torts shall not be limited in their judgment to award a claimant any and all damages that they may deem fair and just. Nor shall the trier of the facts be limited in factors to be considered in calculation of damages, including but not limited to any such factors as pain, suffering, grief, or bereavement.

Section 36(a). Section 36 and Section 36(a) of Article I of this Constitution shall only be amended by affirmation of the voters of Missouri following the constitutional petition process defined in Article III Section 50 of this Constitution.
